Maintaining Personal Hygiene:

- Employees are expected to maintain good personal hygiene, including cleanliness and grooming. All employees are expected to use deodorant daily.

Exceptions:

- For Client Sites: Where the client site requires a form of dressing or protective gear. This shall be communicated prior to the meeting.

Enforcement:

- Supervisors and managers are responsible for ensuring that employees adhere to the dress code policy.

- During rainy season, staff who need to wear crocs or rain boots or other protective footwear are to ensure they change out of them once they are in the building. Walking around in the building in any of the listed footwear shall attract the applicable disciplinary action.

If you wear uncomfortable shoes to work, have a spare that are comfortable in your drawer. Walking around in slides or slippers particularly when it is not casual Friday shall attract the applicable sanction.

- Violations of the dress code will result in corrective action including queries and financial penalties.
